

Trial Support Services

The Data Company provides the legal community with the latest trial presentation tools. Hands-on exposure to several high-profile national trials in recent years has enabled The Data Company to become adept in providing on-site litigation support and staffing to all parts of the U.S. The Data Company has an extensive trial history in products liability, intellectual property, toxic torts, healthcare, construction, class-action, and other practice areas.

Onsite Hearing and Trial Staffing

With offices conveniently located both in the Mid-South and on the West Coast, our specialists can reach our clients anywhere in the United States. Wherever your trial is located, we can provide technicians, designers, videographers, digital editors, and other professionals you may need. Our staff is highly trained and experienced in their areas of expertise, as well as cross-trained to perform other services we offer. We assist in planning, staffing, implementation, and become members of your team throughout the duration of your trial. In addition, The Data Company specializes in setting up presentation technology for war rooms that allow the trial technicians to prepare with clients throughout the trial. We include equipment that allows the trial technician to revise or create rebuttal exhibits, video clips, new demonstratives, animations, or any other potential exhibit.
